DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-23, drawn to a method for detecting the presence or concentration of a polyhydroxyl analyte, classified in class 436, subclass 518.
 - II. Claim 24, drawn to an indicator system, classified in class 558, subclass 286.
2. Inventions I and II are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product such as fluorescein isothiocyanate (FITC).
3. Claims 1-23 encompass multiple, distinct, and independent inventions. A separate and distinct invention is defined by the combination of (1) a single species of "ligand element" as defined in claim 9 AND (2) a single species of "indicator" as defined in claim 23. Thus, a single invention is considered to be defined by the combination of "aromatic diol" (ligand element and the first appearing species of compound in claim 23 ("indicator")).

4. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons.

Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP 806.04, MPEP 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions defined above involve chemically and structurally different moieties which have different modes of operation. It is further noted that the members of the Markush group of claim 23 which define the indicator" constitute an improper Markush group for the reason that there is no common structural or functional feature which the members have in common.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, and the search required for one group is not required for other restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

In the event applicant elects Group I claims 1-23 applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) i.e. applicants must elect one species of "ligand element" and one species of "indicator".

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case, In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

In order to facilitate a search of the technical literature, applicants are required to provide a structural formula, which corresponds to the elected "indicator".

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
